

EDITORIAL

The Chulabhorn Royal Academy journal is determined to become the quality journal for the dissemination of academic work, research report, and others that related to medical sciences, nursing, health sciences, veterinary sciences and environment sciences.

As this issue is released in the last month of the year 2019, the editorial board wishes all a happy holidays along with joys and attainment of academic progress.

Inside of this issue you will find articles on dataset search in research data service, consumption of cow fat and health, endocrine system and the use of inhibitors at immune checkpoints, occurrence of racemic natural products and their biological activities and nursing competency for the aged.

An invitation is extended to all academicians, scientists, medical doctors and nurses of various disciplines who are interested in submitting their academic or research articles.

An appreciation is given to distinguished scholars and article writers who have produced quality works. The editorial board hopes that this issue is useful for readers in the application of the relevant knowledge and the study for academic advancements.

Professor Nithi Mahanonda, M.D.

Chief Editor

Chulabhorn Royal Academy
906 Kamphaeng Phet 6 Rd., Talat Bang Khen, Lak Si,
Bangkok 10210,
<https://www.cra.ac.th/>